WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The President has answered the message of Gov. Brown, of Tennessee, sent yesterday, in effect that until reports shall have been obtained from the District Attorney of the Western District of Tennessee, no definite answer can be given. He expresses gratification that the State authorities are taking prompt and vigorous measures against outlaws, but reminds the Governor that United States authorities have jurisdiction over a posse in this, as well as other States, in regard to crimes like that in question.

Church Difficulties in Victoria.

VICTORIA, Sept. 19.—The Dean of Christ Church Cathedral has been on trial for some days on charges of insubordination and contumacy. To-day the Bishop of Columbia delivered his judgment, revoking the Dean's license to preach. A counter agitation at once commenced, the church bell was tolled and the Bishop and his court hissed and hooted from the Church. The Dean was loudly cheered by the populace of all denominations, who charge that the Dean's offenses consist in his opposition to the ritualistic practices of the Bishop. On Monday night, the Bishop's barns were fired and burned to the ground, and the Cathedral is guarded by the police.

SALEM GOSSIP.

SALEM, Sept. 18, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

"We all have an ambition." After the foregoing highly original remark, your gentle readers will be more than likely to pause, if not to "mark, learn and inwardly digest" it, for lack of interest in so dry a sentiment. Let the aforesaid readers do their worst, (to themselves) which will be to read all the proxy articles from summer resorts, glances at the political situation, and at the invariable, (and shall I add) inevitable poetry in the left-hand corner of the last page—lastly perusing the ads. After reading with interest or otherwise the contents named, "a wish for something more and better, that will not be repressed," will perhaps take possession of the readers' mind, recalling it to this neglected column.

"We all have an ambition." With that brevity which is the soul of wit, please permit a few words, personal and explanatory. It has always been our cherished desire to see something of our own in print—to have some thoughts and ideas placed in the hands of editor and compositor for the better preservation by means of printers' ink. Need we add that a wholesome fear of a returned unabridged manuscript branded with the cruel word "declined," has hitherto been the obstacle in the way of our soaring ambition. And this suggests the reflection that editors, of all other classes of people, must find it most necessary to cultivate hardness of heart. The moral courage it must require to perform the dead above mentioned, is indeed beyond all comprehension, especially by those whose budding genius is destined to be nipped by the editor's fist.

Not supposing for a moment that this maiden "effort" will meet so dire a fate as the b—basket (or the worst waste of postage in the art of declining it), we will, "return to our mutton" (in plain English, rather than the euphonious French with which the convenient quotation is usually clothed. Having made the bow demanded by literary etiquette, ut ego.

The last of our summer parties have wended their way homeward, and the grand old rocks and forests, which erst echoed to the laugh of happy children, or the more sober enjoyment of older folks, are left to their pristine solitude. This summering in the foothills and mountains has become a physical necessity, and the benefit of out-door life for a season have been fully attested by the decrease of chills and fever which have heretofore been the bane of our city.

By the way, how refreshing has been the scarcity of "statements" of late on the all-absorbing topic. We can occasionally take up a paper now without fear of that infliction before one's eyes. "Alas! for the party of Christian charity under the sun." A score of years ago, when stories for children were printed in the back part of the spelling book, whether true, allegorical or in fable, a few sentences were generally appended in italics, headed "Moral." In this case the "morale" might be made applicable by relating the legend of "how the streets of Jerusalem were kept clean," simply by each householder keeping the space before his own door clean and swept.

We gladly welcome the convening of the Solons of our State. If it is true that in "the multitude of counsellors there is wisdom," then we may pronounce the country safe. The increased stir and activity upon our streets inspires us with feelings semi-metropolitan, and we anticipate for more results than from the session of two years since, which was characterized as little else than a little hope, and that is in the furtherance of work on the Capitol. It will indeed be a "stately pile," if completed on the present plan, and then we can be justly proud of it. Our members evidently mean business, judging from their earnest endeavors to bring order out of chaos. Query—Does not the Independent element, of which there is so large a share, deserve some credit for such a state of things? We will wait and "see what we shall see." Yours, TYRO.

The Colonist states that the contract for building the Penitentiary at New Westminster has been let, and that instructions left Ottawa some days ago for this Province. Work will be commenced about the 1st prox., and pushed as rapidly as circumstances and weather will allow. Mr. Kirkland, of New Westminster, a most competent and reliable man, has been appointed clerk of the works, which will require about two years and a half to complete, and will give employment to a large number of mechanics.

A gentleman who had resided for some years in Victoria without "striking" anything worth picking up, received a letter a few weeks ago from Queensland, Australia, informing him that a piece of land owned by him, and left behind as unsalable seven years ago, has suddenly risen to great value in consequence of recent gold discoveries. The gentleman left in the last steamer with his family for Queensland to take possession of his estate, for which, seven years ago, he could not find a purchaser at £50, but which is probably now worth as many thousands.

The infant daughter of Mr. Huger, a wealthy German in Green Point, Long Island, was found several days ago in a street in New York city. This is the case of abduction by a discharged nurse, which was mentioned in the dispatches a few days since. When found the child was in a starving condition, and soon after her removal to Bellevue Hospital she died.

Jas. Vick, of Rochester, N. Y., has offered $50 in coin as premiums at the State Fair for cut flowers, raised from seeds grown or imported by him. These premiums are liberal and the competition for them will be quite exciting. The Secretary informs the Record of two parties, each of whom expect to capture the $50.

It is reported that Ivan Le[illegible], who raised a splendid wheat crop on McCormack's farm, a few miles below Eugene City—about 61 bushels to the acre—took French leave of that part of the country a few days ago, leaving quite a number of creditors who would like to see him again, or receive a few hundred dollars from him.

The other day, while cutting bands for a threshing machine, Fred. Waymire, of Polk county, came very near meeting with a severe accident. He plunged the knife into his arm and inflicted an ugly gash just above the wrist. It was thought that he had cut an artery, but upon examination it was discovered to be not so bad as expected.

A petition was circulated during last week, which received the signature of almost every citizen and tax-payer of the Dalles, for the purpose of asking the Oregon Legislature to change Dalles City charter so as to allow the City Council to levy a tax of not to exceed three mills per annum for the purpose of keeping up the Fire Department.

The fine farm belonging to the Alexander brothers, on the island, four or five miles from Corvallis, has produced a crop of wheat this year which is hard to beat. Their wheat land, about 130 acres, produced near 5,000 bushels, and one field of 40 acres yielded 1,800 bushels of nicely cleaned wheat. The boys have a large tract of this fertile land, and can raise an immense amount of grain.

The Times says: The finances of Jackson county are in a fair way of being in a healthy condition again. We learn that the bondsmen in the Jos. Wells' case are making preparations for a settlement with the county, and this amount, in connection with that due from the Oregon Central Military Road Company, which there is every prospect will be shortly liquidated, will place Jackson county almost if not quite out of debt.

Last Saturday night week, the denizens of Kanaka Flat, a suburb of Jacksonville, had a lively row, which resulted in the shooting of the negro wood chopper, Jackson, and his subsequent death. The coroner's inquest showed that the deceased, Jackson, came to his death on Kanaka Flat, Jackson county, on September 12th, by means of a rifle ball supposed to have been fired by Geo. Ephraim. The last seen of Eph. he was taking a bee-line for California at double quick time.

From Z. I. Hazeltine, of Grant county, the Mountaineer learns the following items of news from that section of our State: "The Burnt river gold mining district has turned out very well this season. Messrs. Carpenter, Brunsen and Farmer cleaned up about $12,000 from their claims for four months' work. The other claims have also paid well. The Elk Creek quartz mines are paying well. The Cabel mine is turning out splendid, and bids fair to rival the celebrated mines of Washoe. The crops of Grant county this season are reported as excellent. Wheat is selling at 90 cents per bushel. Business of all kinds at Canyon City was improving, and money was becoming more plenty."

The Coos Bay Record says: Last week terrible fires were raging on almost all the sloughs emptying into the Bay, that on South Slough being most destructive to cattle and improvements. Mr. Ty[illegible] was one of the losers, his losses reaching $600 or [illegible]. The camp of Mr. Noble was also destroyed. The fire back of Marshfield was the first one, but it did little damage, destroying a small house and killing several large trees. A man by the name of Langlis, while riding through the burning woods, coming to Marshfield from Empire, had his hand and face badly burned. Fortunately rains came to put the fires out before very extensive destruction of timber had taken place.

According to the Salem papers one George W. Shell has been indulging in some little pranks recently which entitle him to a gratuitous puff. He is [illegible] as having forged a letter of recommendation to the Marion county School Superintendent and underwent an examination for the position of teacher, and was refused a certificate on the grounds of incompetency. Since then he has shown a certificate which he claims was given him by the former Superintendent, as well as the present one, both of which are forgeries. He has also secured old certificates and changed them to appear as his own by erasing the names of the sons fide parties to whom they were originally issued. This gay and festive youth is about 22 years of age.

THE TERRITORIES.

Steam street cars are used in Salt Lake City with success.

The taxable property in Owyhee county, Idaho, this year amounts to $80,000.

Gen. Braxton Bragg is Chief Engineer of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad.

A public free museum is now the question up for consideration in Salt Lake City.

Rev. A. H. Bradford is expected to lecture in Olympia on Tuesday night of this week.

Montana Chinamen have taken to feeding Indians with whisky, then killing and robbing them.

S. D. Howe, Esq., relieves Mr. Finkbonner as inspector of customs at Bellingham Bay, and has gone there to take charge.

Ned W[illegible], who sold a placer mine in Canyon City, Montana, recently, for $27,400, has just struck a rich gold lode ten miles above Silver City.

A party of Nisqually Indians passed through Olympia on Tuesday, on their way to Skokomish with four race horses, which are expected to be entered in the fall races there.

Judge Dennison has purchased a flock of fine sheep from General Stevens, of Olympia. They have been grazing at his ranch on Fidalgo Island, and will be brought to Yelm prairie.

It is proposed by a party of Montanians to prospect the Missouri river for gold. They reason that as the Jefferson mines have proved good and extensive, the Missouri will prove "better than good" and more extensive.

The wheat crop of Southern Dakota was but little injured by grasshoppers. The oat and corn crop suffered more from their ravages, but the pests have long since departed southward without depositing their eggs; hence they expect no trouble from them in that section next spring.

The Transcript says: The hop men are in full blast. E. Meeker, John Meeker, Miller and Meade & Thompson are at work, picking hops and curing them. They have good crops, and say they will run from 1,500 to 3,000 pounds per acre. Some hop growers have sold for 25 cents per pound money in hand. Meeker and Meade & Thompson have each one hundred Indians at work for them.

F. A. Clark, Esq., is at work on a new road to Tacoma from Franklin, which will be about eight miles long and shortening the distance between those two places some ten miles. The road is nearly cut through, and Mr. Clark has ten Chinamen grading, and three sets of white men making bridges, etc. They have already raised $1,300 by subscriptions and the county gives $350 more. The citizens have labored well and hard and contributed liberally.

The Olympia Courier of the 18th inst. says: Appearances indicate that Mount Rainier is preparing to have a display of fireworks at an early day. Large volumes of black smoke were seen issuing from near the summit this morning, and this afternoon we went across the bay and with a good spy-glass watched until we became satisfied that the heavy cloud hanging over the summit was caused by steam that poured up from between the two highest peaks of the mountain.

John Cade died very suddenly near Boise City on the 12th inst. He was at work with Capt. Allen at the time, putting up the cornice of Mr. Patterson's new house. They had just finished the cornice and driven the last nail; Cade remarked that they had done enough, and they were about to quit and leave the scaffolding, when Cade raised and spit a little bloody matter, and feeling weak, he asked Captain Allen to help him down. He did so, but before they reached the ground the blood rushed out of his mouth in a large stream, and although he was [illegible] laid down on the ground, he had bled a gallon or more and never spoke, but was d[illegible].

APPENDIX TO THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

REPORT OF PARDONS.

The following is the report of the pardons granted during the two years ending September 14th, 1874, respectfully submitted for the information of the Legislature:

1. Charles W. Starr, Douglas county; assault with a dangerous weapon. Sentenced May 14, 1870; received at the prison May 18, 1870; term of service, three years in the Penitentiary. Pardoned October 2, 1872, on petition of citizens and of the united delegations of Lane and Douglas counties, in the Legislature, recommended by the Judge of the Circut Court before whom the trial was had, and by the Prosecuting Attorney who tried the cause. Reason: Good conduct while in prison and the time of sentence having nearly expired.

2. Thomas A. Ward (colored), Multnomah county; murder in the second degree. Sentenced July 14, 1871; received at the prison July 17, 1871; term of service in the Penitentiary, life. Pardoned November 4, 1872, on petition of fifty-six members of the Legislature of Oregon, and a large number of citizens of Multnomah county. Reason: The crime for which Ward was convicted was committed on account of the seduction of an adopted daughter under promise of marriage, and under circumstances of great aggravation and while laboring under the influence of uncontrollable passion, growing out of the circumstances of the case.

3. Robert Jenkins, Clackamas county; sentenced on his own confession of an assault with a dangerous weapon, November term, 1872. Pardoned November 9, 1872, before confinement in the Penitentiary, on petition of a large number of prominent citizens of Clackamas county, signed also by a majority of the grand jury who found the indictment in the cause, by the prosecuting witness, officers and attorneys of the court. Reasons: Prisoner was of good moral character and the circumstance accidental.

4. Michael McCormick, Clackamas county; murder in the second degree. Sentenced to the Penitentiary for life, May 6, 1872; received May 6, 1872. Pardoned December 18, 1872. Reasons: He was convicted by the Circuit Court of Clackamas county for an assault upon an Indian, whereof the Indian died in six weeks after said assault, but by a [illegible] before the jury at the time of said conviction it appeared probable that the death of said Indian was chiefly caused by pre-existing disease. Said McCormick was a wife who is a cripple, and seriously suffering both in body and mind, and since the imprisonment of her husband has become a county charge in Marion county.

5. George W. Saxe, Linn county; assault with a dangerous weapon. Sentenced November 3, 1871, to the Penitentiary for the term of two years; received at the prison November 4, 1871. Pardoned on petition of citizens of Linn county, December 18, 1872. Reasons: There were many palliating circumstances, the pardon having been recommended by the Judge, the officers of the Court and the jury before whom said Saxe was tried, and also by the prosecuting witness in the case, and in consideration of good conduct during imprisonment.

6. Madison Bledsoe, Multnomah county; murder in the second degree; sentenced to the Penitentiary for life on the 2d of December, 1864; received at the Penitentiary December 3, 1864; pardoned December 26, 1872, on petition of influential citizens of Multnomah county, on unanimous request of the Legislative Assembly of 1872, of the Judges of the Supreme Court, and the officers of the Court where conviction was had; also on petition of a large number of the most distinguished citizens of the State. Reasons: In consideration of many palliating circumstances; good conduct, diligence and success in the labors of the prison, and his apparent reformation.

7. T. H. DeLoss, Multnomah county; forgery; sentenced to the Penitentiary June 22, 1871, for the term of three years; received at the prison June 23, 1871; pardoned March 3, 1873, on petition of prominent citizens of Multnomah county. Reasons: It was his first offense. On trial said DeLoss proved a good moral character, and, since imprisonment, his conduct has been most exemplary. His services to the State have been valuable as a book-keeper and an instructor of his fellow-prisoners.

8. Maurice Graves, Marion county; forgery; sentenced March 16, 1872; term of service two years; received at the Penitentiary March 13, 1872; pardoned March 10, 1873, on petition of citizens of Marion county. Reasons: He was a minor, and was convicted for forging an order of only $8 for the purchase of a pair of boots. It was his first offense, and the sentence of the Court seemed excessive. His conduct was exemplary during imprisonment.

9. Fillmore Frazier, Douglas county; larceny of a horse; sentenced October 18, 1864, to ten years in the Penitentiary; received at the prison

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING SEPT 21 1874

THE PENITENTIARY

We have received a copy of the Report of the Superintendent and Commissioners of the Oregon State Penitentiary It is a document of one hundred and fifty pages, and although wanting in that delicate regard for The State Printer which characterizes the biennial message of His Excellency, the Governor it is full of interesting facts and figures The Report shows that on September 1, there were confined in the prison one hundred and thirteen prisoners received since 1872 116, discharged 08, of which 72 were "discharge [illegible] by time granted on merits, pardoned by the Governor, 18 miscellaneous, 8 During the past two years no escapes have occurred, and but one attempt at escape has been made

The financial exhibits show that the expenditures on account of the Penitentiary for the two years just past amount to $88 127 22 from which are to be deducted the expenses of two quarters—which, Superintendent Watkinds holds, are properly chargeable to the Capitol building—amounting to $1,500, supplies on hand $4,048 76, and permanent improvements on Capitol and Prison Grounds (classed as increased value of property) $12,250 41, making the actual expenditures $69,822 26 The earnings of the prison in the same time were $76 026 77, showing an excess of earnings over expenditures of $6,204 51 There is a deficiency over and above the $75,000 appropriation of 1872, of $11,127 22 The total cost of maintaining a convict in these two years was $181 40, or 25 cents per day | The exhibits are accompanied by tabular statements of expenditures, etc., which we have not yet carefully examined

The Superintendent makes the following recommendations, to which the attention of the Legislature is called in the Governor's message

1 The making of any convict's sentence additional that for an [illegible] or attempted es[illegible] a [illegible] m of service be doubled. I under[illegible] to be the law [illegible] Sept 1, and that it has had a salutary effect.

2. An appropriation for a library and a law authorizing the Warden to charge a fixed fee for admission of visitors to be applied to library purposes

3. A change in the uniform of the convicts from that required by the present law

4 A law authorizing the Governor to lease the labor of convicts for a t m of years

5 An appropriation to purchase the saw mill now attached to the water power

6 An appropriation for a moral instructor A law fixing the salary of the same such instructor to be chaplain of the prison

7 The regulation by the General Assembly of the salaries of physician guards and other [illegible] of the prison, not now working under a fixed salary

8 An appropriation to purchase a tract of land adjoining the prison containing between thirty and forty acres belonging to M L Savage, Esq if the same can be had at reasonable rate When the Asylum grounds are used for their proper purpose, the prison confines will be rather narrow

In the body of his report the Superintendent makes a recommendation not included in the above, viz that his salary be increased He agrees with his immediate predecessor, that the Superintendent is the "poorest paid officer connected with the prison for the amount of service required"

Mr. Watkinds urges with much earnestness the the economy of leasing the labor of convicts for a term of years at a fixed rate per day, the prisoners to be under the immediate care of State guards Under such an arrangement, says the Superintendent the expenses of the Penitentiary could be reduced to $47,887

The reports of the Physician, Librarian, Chaplain and the Penitentiary Building Commissioners are appended So far as we can see, Superintendent Watkinds has faithfully performed his duties, and in a manner that reflects credit upon himself and the State

WHOLLY INEXCUSABLE

It is quite impossible to imagine what reasonable excuse Mr Theodore Tilton can possibly offer for the publication of his supplementary statement, a synopsis of which is continued in our dispatches this morning. If it be that he cannot rest under the imputations of the Investigating Committee, some discreet friend should have told him that the place for him to prove his innocence is in court and before a jury of his peers. He is an advocate pleading before a tired public [illegible] since disgusted with the case and ready to give in a verdict. Looking over the [illegible] we from its beginning to the present, one can now begin to realize the evil effects which are sure to follow it. Tilton [illegible] without apparent restraint of the most disgusting social iniquities. With prurient fidelity to details, he unfolds a most revolting tale of domestic infelicity, never hesitating, in his zeal to destroy Beecher, to cast the foulest odium upon the living and the dead alike

Infinitely more filthy than anything previously spoken or hinted in the investigation is the second statement of Francis B. Moulton, published in The Graphic Knowing that a trial was soon to take place, and that he would, within four weeks, have ample opportunity to vindicate himself, if innocent, this man has chosen to pour out upon the public a story of the foulest [illegible], couched in the most offensive language, and accompanied by no apology whatsoever It would be difficult to conceive of more objectionable expressions than those in which Moulton words his so-called defense against the charge of blackmailing If ever there was an obscene publication this statement of Moulton is one It can do no possible good, and it cannot fail of doing much harm If these latest contributions to the scandal are samples of what may be expected next October, the case ought to be tried with closed doors

ILLIN AND LINCOLNITE

The Independents of Thurston county, W T, have issued a call for a County Convention to be held In Olympia, Saturday, October 10th, for the purpose of nominating a People's ticket The brief platform put forth is prefaced with the following preamble, which is very homely, but much to the point

Whereas The Republican party has accomplished the object for which it was brought into life and its usefulness has become one of the past and

Whereas The real issue between the so-called Republican and Democratic parties of the present day is only who shall plunder the public treasury whether those in power or those out of power and whereas prominent men and leaders of both parties have always favored the creation of railroad, and other monopolies, which were opposed to the best interests of the farmers and mechanics of the land, and under the sacred name of liberty committed every possible outrage on the freemen of the Republic and whereas under such a condition of affairs a thorough reform is necessary therefore be it resolved etc

What American heart would not yearn to thrust a dozen Republican votes into the ballot-box after reading a single result of the Kennebec Journal? This is the way the Northern heart was fired on the eve of the Maine election and these are the startling head-lines that spoke in melancholy black of the danger of the Dutch taking Holland 'The Northern Ku Klux Stand by the Republican flag

The President in earnest Fred Douglass on the situation 'Decrease of the debt Democratic responsibility for the public debt Republican economy Southern terrorism' 'The Coushatta massacre Six whites and seven blacks murdered 'The work of the White Leagues Coushatta a Yankee colony—the victims assassinated because they were Republicans The deed done to intimidate and control Republican majorities 'State economy Ship-building in danger' 'Kuklux in new clothes Duty of Republicans' "Political murders in Texas Butchering of sixteen negroes in Tennessee 'Republican Congressmen fleeing for life

In a letter to the New York Tribune, Dr Leonard Bacon answers the charge made by the Sun that he is responsible for forcing the great scandal upon the attention of the public in this wise 'Long ago the scandal was as notorious as it is to-day What the Sun imputes to me as guilt is really not the notoriety of the scandal but the investigation of it I would rather be blamed for the investigation than share in the responsibility for those futile attempts at suppression which have done so much to make the foul stories seem credible"

A New York dispatch of September 16, says it is authoritatively stated that the Grand Jury will indict Moulton for his statements relative to Miss Proctor, which he knew were false It is also understood that a libel suit for $100 000 will be instituted against the Daily Graphic for publishing the Proctor letter

THE [illegible] MORRIS RAILROAD LAW SUSTAINED

Madison Wis Sept 15 — Last Justice Ryan has concluded the reading of the opinion in the suit against the railroads of the State for an injunction to compel a compliance with the Potter Railroad law and directs an injunction to issue compelling all the railroads in the State to comply with its provisions An injunction applies to all railroads in the State except that between Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien, a division of the Milwaukee and St Paul Railroad The reason for this exception is that this line is successor of a road holding an old territorial charter and hence not subject to the clause in the State Constitution, which authorizes the Legislature to alter or repeal charters The Prairie du Chien line is less than 200 miles long, and the St Paul Company has 700 miles of road in the State. The remaining 500 are subject to the injunction

Chicago Sept 16 — A Milwaukee dispatch speaking of the effect of the Supreme Court decision yesterday on the railroads says It is noteworthy that there is a much more favorable feeling towards the roads at present than has been experienced since the first railroad bill excited the people The general verdict seems to be, Now we have shown the roads we are sovereigns, let us be magnanimous There is a strong feeling that the new Legislature should pass a law repealing the Potter Act and restricting the roads to reasonable charges."

WHAT THE RAILROAD COMPANY WILL DO

"Your correspondent interviewed Alex Mitchell President and D S Morrill Manager of the St Paul Railroad Mr Mitchell said emphatically the road would obey the law without the slightest attempt to avoid its true intent that the convenience of freighters and shippers would be consulted as in the past and no trains taken off until shown to be unprofitable by actual experience There can be no appeal—this being a temporary injunction, pendente lite When the order is made perpetual he could not say what would be done He had hopes that the new Legislature would act fairly and protect the Co's rights equally with those of the people President Keep of the Northwestern Road in an interview on the subject said the decision was unexpected but there is no alternative for the company but compliance Yet as the company could not possibly exist by furnishing the present accommodations and comforts under the law, it would be compelled to make retrenchments everywhere In the first place fewer trains would be run and slower time made First class coaches would be withdrawn and second class substituted All work on the railroad and in the shops would be stopped and the working force and employes of the road reduced to a minimum

THE EFFECT IN THE STOCK MARKET

New York September 16 —Speculation in Wall street depended largely upon the railroad decision in Madison, Wisconsin The result was learned when business was just closing The decision does not go into effect before Oct 1st by which time the railroad officials expect to have their cases made up and transferred to the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington An $400,000 000 of property is involved it is likely to be taken up in October The decision caused a slight decline in a few stocks, but did not affect the general market

CITY.

WHO SHOULD COME.—In Congress, [illegible] world for the present month, we [illegible] tion by Mr Hugh Small, [illegible] Oregon Who Should Come, [illegible] from it we extract the following [illegible] and Clerks of the average citizen [illegible] well before they start for this State. Potential [illegible] the larger towns are generally overcrowded [illegible] with such [illegible] usual callings they had better not come; [illegible] that if they come to learn to be good farmers, [illegible] and are prepared for hard work and the [illegible] tudes of good habits, they should cease by all [illegible] means and rise with this young, growing and prosperous State First-class men of high character and superior qualifications soon get good situations at fair salaries. There is no city or State in the Union where men of ability and integrity can more highly prized. [illegible] men in the city of Portland and in the State of Oregon All such men are sure to do well and rise to their proper level. There is no [illegible] valuable places in Oregon for drones. The [illegible] wants intelligent and industrious men, of [illegible] habits and high aims. Persons of such character have golden opportunities in Oregon to advance themselves, and thereby add to the prosperity and progress of the State. [illegible] professional men beyond the present supply, are not much wanted in Oregon. The climate is too healthy to admit of many more physicians succeeding The land fallacy [illegible] well defined and established to give employment to a much larger number of lawyers than are already in the State. Clergymen are numerous but there is always a demand for first-class men in this department, who are highly appreciated and fairly remunerated. School teachers of a high order are greatly needed and would be well paid In this large [illegible] The public school system [illegible] for progress in the State, but it [illegible] approved in organization, appointment, and [illegible] ample remuneration to teachers, so as to secure the services of those thoroughly competent for the work

FAREWELL SERMON.—Rev A. H. Bradford preached his farewell discourse at the First Congregational Church last evening. The large audience room was densely crowded, and the aisles were filled with seats for the accommodation of those who attended. Rarely, if ever does one see a larger, more refined, and cultivated audience assembled within the walls of that church than was present last evening. The discourse was brief, but appropriate to the character of the occasion. It abounded with some most important truths connected with life, all its varied relations, uttered in an earnest and impressive style, and did not fail to deeply impress the hearers. As the close of the sermon Mr Bradford took occasion to allude to the acknowledgments to the citizens of Portland generally for the cordial welcome he had received on his arrival here and the many manifestations of cordiality and kindly wishing accorded himself and family during their temporary sojourn in the city Such substantial tokens of Christian love and sympathy [illegible] gave him great pleasure, and caused him to [illegible] his feeling of indebtedness to those who called upon to [illegible] assistance now that he was on the eve of his departure. It had caused a great struggle to leave his many old and friends of Mount Clair and come out to Portland. He had met no cold and sympathizing friends among this [illegible] to be cold and wish He assured them that they should never be forgotten, that he should [illegible] back with him pleasant remembrances of the memory of friendships formed here, and wish in all years to come should be [illegible] finished On Tuesday evening we [illegible] and a sociable will be given at the church on the many friends of Mr Bradford will [illegible] the last opportunity of meeting with him. Accompanied by his family, Mr. Bradford will go down the Columbia on Wednesday to Astoria and remain there until the sailing of the Ajax

[illegible] BY FIRE.—About 5 o'clock yesterday morning the slaughter house of Johnson & Spaulding, situated some distance west of the city limits, was discovered to be in flames. A brother in-law of Mr Johnson, who does the butchering, was the first to discover the fire. He first [illegible] to the [illegible] and on observing the building in flames, [illegible] with all possible speed to the scene, where about thirty head of cattle were secured in the corral, in the midst of which the burning house stood. The man, [illegible] saving his utmost endeavors, succeeded in getting the live stock out of the inclosure, before they were burned Nothing could be done to save the building which was completely enveloped in flames before the discovery was made Ten head of slaughtered cattle and fifteen sheep which had been dressed [illegible] Saturday evening were hanging up in the building and were of course, destroyed. All the tools used about the establishment were also consumed. There was no insurance whatever on the building and the loss is a total one. As near as can be determined the loss is estimated at $5 000 The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary [illegible] and lard, but it could scarcely have been communicated in that manner The time when the fire occurred is unfavorable to the supposition that it was the result of accident, and in favor of the one that some evil-minded person actuated by malicious motives, set fire to the building Ashes from the [illegible] the fire has occasioned great inconvenience as a number of the butchers shops in the city and also the steamers procure their daily supply of meat from Messrs. Johnson & Spaulding

GEN DAVIS IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The S F Bulletin of the 15th inst says 'Gen Jefferson C Davis late Commander of the Department of the Columbia, arrived from Portland, Oregon, on Saturday on his way to the Department of the Platte and is at present sojourning in this city. Since his creditable conduct of the Modoc business the General has rendered [illegible] of excellent service to the Government in the rearrangement of the posts in Oregon and Idaho Washington Territory and Alaska comprising the districts within his Department Several contemplated improvements were not consummated because of the transfer of the General to the Department of the Platte [illegible] The General will probably visit Yosemite before assuming his post at Omaha."

ACCIDENT.—Mr George W Warren, of Astoria, who has a logging camp above that place, met with a serious accident on Friday. A log rolling partially over him and injuring his hip considerably He was conveyed from the camp to Brookfield and thence by the steamer Dixie Thompson to his home in Astoria. Mr Warren is unable to walk [illegible] but it is hoped that he has not sustained any permanent injury

We call especial attention to Mr P Selling's lengthy announcement which appears among the new ads Mr Selling fully understands the wants of the local as well as the country trade, and the goods recently opened are complete in every particular A year ago Mr Selling was temporarily crippled by the great fire but by perseverance and full confidence in his patrons to sustain him he has again established himself at the old stand, and to-day has display of dry goods boots and shoes groceries etc, is greater than ever A recent trip to San Francisco and a thorough inspection of the various lines, has enabled him to select the very best To meet the general demand for low prices, he made the necessary preparation, and he is now fully prepared to satisfy old and new customers in that particular To be satisfied on that point all you have to do is to make the proper inquiries at Selling's establishment

LONDON THREATENED WITH AN ANT PLAGUE

No little anxiety says the Pall Mall Gazette has been caused in the neighborhood of London during the last few days by the sudden appearance of myriads of ants A vanguard of these insects has been seen marching over Waterloo Bridge and it is impossible to deny that our position is at the present moment one of extreme peril At any moment the invading army may be upon us and we shall then be exposed to all the horrors of an ant plague Those who are accustomed to look at the ant as an industrious but insignificant creature will probably smile at the idea of its presence even in swarms being a source of serious inconvenience Without any wish to cause an unnecessary panic but merely with the view of preparing London for possible contingencies it may be as well to call attention to the proceedings of an army of ants that some years ago invaded the Island of Grenada The ants on that occasion descended from the hills like torrents and the plantations as well as every path and road for miles were filled with them Rats, mice and reptiles of every kind became an easy prey to them and even the birds which they attacked when ever they lighted on the ground for a bit of food, were so harrassed as to be at length unable to resist them Streams of water opposed only a temporary obstacle to their progress the foremost rushing blindly on certain death and fresh armies instantly following, till a bank was formed by the carcasses of those which were drowned sufficient to dam up the waters and allow the main body to pass over in safety Even fire was tried without effect When it was lighted to arrest their route they rushed into the blaze in such myriads as to extinguish it So much straits was the unfortunate island reduced by the ants that a reward of £20 000 was offered, but in vain for an effectual means of destroying them, and it was not until a hurricane in 1780 came and blew them away and drowned them—doing by the way almost more mischief than the ants—that Grenada was freed from these terrible destroyers Happily in London we have the steam roller which should be kept ready for immediate action in the face of the calamity with which we are now threatened

"Not very Well."

After long vague bodily discomfort with little or no amount to positive illness and yet hopelessly unable with health is often aptly described by the phrase "Not very well" This feeling usually arises from a lack of the nerve power which regulates clock like the vital machinery of the body and controls digestion Nervous weakness is frequently turned out by the profuse if sometimes the unduly small use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla the matter Impurities of the bodily fluids are surely begets their derangement as cause or effect Its thorough, forcible yet absolutely natural but powerful action on health purifies blood thus cleansing, should be purify feed it Then the blood will build perfectly Health follows Ayer's Sarsaparilla vigorant will do both and more than this for it will tone and invigorate the whole system so that the nervous will be fortified against the inroads of disease Nothing is more surely true than that every knight of old was proof by armor that protected him

THE INDIANA HORROR.

THE DYING STATEMENT OF THE MAN WHO WAS ROBBED BY THREE ATROCIOUS VILLIANS, AND TIED UPON A RAILROAD TRACK TO BE CRUSHED TO DEATH.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal, Aug 31:

One of the most atrocious crimes ever committed was perpetrated at a point near Henryville, Ind., about 20 miles back of Jeffersonville, Saturday night.

As a night [illegible] Nov. 30, standing [illegible] ash on the L. M. & I. Railroad, due at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, in charge of Conductor Waterhouse, had reached a point about a mile this side of Henryville, the train was hailed and stopped. A number of men, probably a dozen, were gathered around the body of a man, and Conductor Waterhouse was told that a man had been run over by a previous train, and was dying. The conductor had the injured man taken on board the train, in company with Dr. Ferguson, of Henryville, who had been called to render medical services. The injured man had his leg torn off by the train, and was [illegible] from the loss of blood, and for some time after he was aboard was unable to talk. He, however, revived for a time, and told the following horrible story: "My name is August Gardner. I was born in France. [illegible] but 25 years old. I have no relations or friends in this country. My father is dead. I was going down to Louisville in search of employment, and, as I had but little money, I thought I would walk. It could not have been much past 10 o'clock last night, when three men came up to me while I was walking along the track. One of them demanded my money. I told them that I was poor, having only a few dollars. This did not do any good, for they seized me, two holding me and the other one searching my pockets and taking my pocket book and everything else I had. The men threw me down on the track. I thought that they were going to kill me, and I begged them to spare my life. They said nothing, but one of them produced a long piece of rope from his pocket, and they commenced to tie me to the track, over a cattle-guard. I was badly frightened, and begged them had not to do that. I told them that I never knew them, and had never done them any harm, and if they would let me go I would say nothing of what had occurred. While I was talking and pleading with them they still kept on tying me to the track over the cattle-guard. They tied me lengthways to the rail. The rope was tightly drawn around my body, legs, and arms. When they got through [illegible] I could not move my arms and legs. While I was begging them not to leave me there they went off. I knew that the cars would be along soon, and I tried my utmost to free myself and loosen the ropes that bound me. At first I did not think I would be able to move at all, but, after repeated efforts, I succeeded in working my arms and body on the track. In swinging down, I tried to get my left leg off, but I could not. I yelled with all my might, hoping that somebody would come and save me, but no one came. It was raining hard at the time, and very dark. I had been lying there about half an hour, when I heard the cars whistle. I cannot tell you my feelings, [illegible] over the frame of the dying man.] In a few seconds the cars were nearly up to where I was lying. I gave a wild shriek and closed my eyes. [illegible] cutting off my leg and cutting the rope loose that bound me. I felt a [illegible] intense pain, and crawled a few feet from the track. I [illegible] away, and when I came to was very thirsty. It was still raining, and I dug a hole in the ground by my face with my fingers, so that it would fill with water. By doing this I managed to get a little water. I [illegible] that I did not know, and felt very faint frequently during the night for help, but no one came. [illegible] when found."

FRENCH AFFAIRS.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF THE FRENCH ASSEMBLY.

A correspondence from France informs us of the tumults of the present Assembly, but few are aware that the deliberations of nearly all previous [illegible] in France have been marked and tossed in the same way. Uncle Napoleon, the Corps Legislatif was almost daily the scene of angry outburst, despite the bounteous rewards for compliance with the Imperial will, and the abundant punishments for bitter opposition. But the Assembly of 1848 49 perhaps sinned most grievously. One row over the Conscription bill of 1848 has passed into history. The Marquis de Querhoent was speaking laboriously on the bill when M. Dontre yelled: "Don't talk like an old woman!" "Who [illegible] the Imbecile who said that?" "We all say it, you're an imbecile," shouted a dozen of M. Dontre's friends. This was the spark that fired the train. The Assembly stood on its [illegible] and jabbered and howled. A frantic Royalist shrieked: "If any one would give me a pistol, I would fire [illegible] that cry of wild beasts!" The President, M. Dupin, was a Republican. He lost his temper at this outcry, and [illegible] beast yourself! I call you to order!" The Right turned on the President like one man. "You insult us; beg your pardon," was the cry. M. Dupin [illegible] his hat. When the President covers, it is [illegible] the Assembly, by French parliamentary law, is adjourned. No hat could be found. The distracted President called: "Lend me a hat, some one!" The Left tried to hand it to him. The Right crowded around him, keeping off the Republicans, and pushing the hat that the latter threw. Finally one member of the Left packed his hat with papers, and flung the packet over the heads of the Right. M. Dupin made a graceful fly-catch, thrust the hat on his head, declared the Assembly adjourned, groaned out: "Bah, a pack of beasts," and left his seat. There were also milder affrays. Count Kerauflech baptized with a glassful of sugared water a deputy of the [illegible] under the [illegible] shook his fists at him. Prince Pierre Bonaparte vertoilled the [illegible] by boxing his opponent's ears. There were precedents for such scenes. In 1824, when M. Manuel was supposed to be defending regicide, the Right rose to its feet and shouted "Traitor!" Some of its members advanced toward the [illegible] with such threatening gestures that he fled from the tribune. The wildest excesses were in the days of the First Assembly, when the guillotine was the standing threat, and A [illegible] threw [illegible] to be verified.

The British Parliament is by no means irreproachable in its behavior. It hooted down Disraeli when he made his maiden speech, and wrung from him the famous and plucky retort: "You may laugh me down now, but I will make you hear me yet." Only a few months ago, Sir Charles Dilke was screamed into silence by rowdy members. His efforts to criticise Royalty were interrupted by cries of ing, and braying, and whinnying, and all the other noises of the farmyard, until not a syllable of his speech could be heard.

A HORSE ANSWER.

NOTABLE LETTER FROM CHIEF-JUSTICE CHASE TO JAY COOKE, DATED JUNE 2, 1863.

[From Schuckers's Life of Chase.]

"... informed me two or three weeks ago that you had purchased 300 shares of Philadelphia & Erie Railroad stock for me. At that time I was expecting means of payment from the sale of a farm in Ohio, and would have been glad to hold the stock for income. The sale, however, has not yet been effected, and I have, therefore, not been able to make payment.

"This morning I have yours of yesterday, notifying me that you have sold the stock at an advance which gives a profit of $4,200 on the transaction, and you inclose me a check for that amount.

"As I had not paid for the stock, and did not contemplate purchasing with any view to resale, I cannot regard the profit as mine, and, therefore, return the check for $4,200. It is herewith inclosed.

"I am much obliged to you for your willingness to regard the money paid for the stock as a temporary loan from you to me. But I cannot accept the favor.

"When Congress, at the last session, saw fit to clothe me with very large powers over currency and financial movements, I determined to avoid every act which could give occasion to any suspicion on me to affect markets unnecessarily, or at all, with reference to the private advantage of anybody. To carry out this determination faithfully, I must decline to receive any advantage from purchases or sales made with views to profits expected from the rise or fall of market prices.

"For these reasons I must decline to receive the stock. For, in order to be able to render the most efficient service to our country, it is essential for me to be right as well as to seem right, and to seem right as well as to be right."

Wheat in Liverpool, by mail advices from San Francisco, 10s 4d@10s 6d for average California, and 10s 8d@10s 4d for club.

There seems to be an increasing demand for monetary favors, although the supply of available funds is yet ample, and all inquiries, accompanied by prime commercial paper, are met with favor, both at the banks and by outside parties. The wheat buyers, however, have as yet made but few calls up on this market, most of the coin for that department of trade coming from without the State.

The profits of moneyed institutions on this coast are generally considered very fair. To show them we give a synopsis of the semi-annual report of the Anglo-California Bank, Limited, recently presented at the first annual meeting of the shareholders in London. The report is for the six months ending June 6th, during which the gross profits were £35,676 2s 9d, and the net profits £22,168 is 5d. Adding the balance carried over from the previous half year, the available total is £25,661 5s 11d. From this sum a dividend of 3s per share has been declared, equal to 4 per cent. for the six months, amounting to $60,000 on the paid-up capital. The rate is the same as for the previous six months. This leaves a surplus of £5,000 for reserve fund and £3,000 19s 5d for profit and loss new account. The managers in San Francisco are F. F. Low and [illegible] Steinhart.

The report of the imports of dry goods at the port of New York for the month of August show a remarkable falling off. Thus the total value of fabrics entered at the port for the month of August up to Friday 28th was $11,130,919, against $12,072,071 during the corresponding period last year, $10,925,880 in 1872, and $10,379,121 in 1871. These returns show a failure to realize the anticipated activity in business; the purchases being limited to the most staple goods, and hence the falling off in the demand for imported fabrics, and the decrease in the importations. The entries for warehousing for the month were $3,253,665, against $3,407,631 in the corresponding period last year, $2,946,119 in 1872, and $3,081,656 in 1871. The withdrawals from warehouse during the month were $3,286,862, against $4,432,834 in August, 1873, $2,800,564 in 1872, and $4,717,226 in 1871.

San Francisco Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Wheat—$1 50@1 55; Flour—Extra, $7@$7 25. Barley—$1@$1 10; Brewing, $1 10@1 15. Chevalier, $1 60@1 65. Oats—$1 35@1 50. Potatoes—50@75c a Sweet, $1 25. Feed—Oil Cake Meal has been formally reduced from $32 25 to $30 per ton.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The daily receipts at this point during the past four days have been about 900 tons, but a very considerable portion of it has been placed on storage, the rest being intended for the Alumini, Hermione, Orient and Europa. The first two of these vessels is being now loaded, the third about half loaded and the last ready to receive cargo. A large number of teams are now engaged in hauling wheat from Tualatin Plains to the city. Most of this goes in store, to be sold at the convenience and pleasure of holders. Each man's grain is kept seperate from that of others. When large lots are thus collected better prices can generally be realized than when it is sold in separate parcels. The ruling price here this week has been $1 50 per cental for round lots, but wagon loads have changed hands at 3 cents per cental less.

FLOUR—The market is well supplied, receipts of the product of the new wheat crop being quite liberal. We quote best brands of city flour, $6 75@7 per bbl; outside mill exclusive brands, $4 25@4 50; superfine, $3. The demand for shipment to San Francisco is dull at present, as the commodity bears about as high price here as there. The shipments to the north ward are light, but increasing. The home trade is active as usual.

OATS—The reports of a shorter outcome to the new crop than was expected seems to have had the effect to keep prices steady and quotations are still furnished at 37½@42½c per bushel sacked; the latter figures being only for choice lots. Some extra lots of superfine oats have sold for 45 cents per bushel. The receipts of the week so far have been small for the season.

BARLEY—We hear of but few transactions and these mostly of lots to supply the local trade. For best brands the ruling rates are $1 45@1 50 per cental, while inferior used for feed, commands $1 35@1 40. Receipts of the new crop are light.

FEED—The market is in rather an unsettled state, and has changed in important particulars since our last review. We quote bran at $12@14 per ton; shorts, $17@18; chops, middlings, etc., $18@20.

HAY—The receipts of the new crop have been large, and have found shift sale at $10@11 per ton for baled timothy, $9@10 for loose do; wild dull at $6@7 per ton.

POTATOES—The receipts are very liberal and prices are rather weaker than at last report. Choice varieties assorted and sacked are worth 50 cents per bushel, but common lost range from 35@45c.

ONIONS—Not many large lots are arriving to market, but the demand, not being brisk, is fairly supplied at 2½@3 50 per 100 lbs.

RIPE FRUITS—A very full supply of all seasonable varieties is at hand, and prices are low with a wide range. We quote apples at 40@60 cents per box; pears, 40@60c; plums, 40@c per box; peaches, 80@1c.

DRIED FRUITS—The market is weaker; apples quotable at 9@9½c per lb. Demand sluggish. Prunes unchanged.

BACON—Some receipts from the upper Columbia were noted, the supply of hams and sides being light. Prices are likely to remain at present comfortable figures until the packing season. Quotations for good lots of country cured are 11@12 cents ₱ lb for sides, 9@10 cents for shoulders, and 15@16 cents for hams.

LARD—The market is still firm at 14@15 cents ₱ lb in kegs and tins.

BUTTER—The demand is quiet for such, and an advancing tendency is noticed for such, which is quitable for [illegible] 25@30 cents; good packed, 20@25; common, 12½@16 cents.

CHEESE—Best Oregon brands are in fair request at 16@18 cents ₱ lb.

EGGS—Receipts are larger and prices are weakening. We quote at 24@25 cents per dozen.

CHICKENS—For grown hens, choice lots are quotable at $1@1 25 per dozen; mixed lots and spring chickens, $2 50@3 per dozen.

BEEF CATTLE—The arrivals now supply the demand amply, and are generally in good condition. On foot, choice lots of young steers quotable at 6c ₱ lb, common and ordinary.

MUTTON SHEEP—Several fine drives have reached this market recently, for which prices paid in the interior $1 75@2 25 ₱ head, quotable here at $2@2 50.

DRESSED HOGS—Receipts are light, as is the demand; quotable at 5½@6c ₱ lb.

TALLOW—Quotable at 6@6½c ₱ lb with a fair demand.

HIDES—Receipts have fallen off; demand for shipping free at inside ₱ lb for choice dry, 6@7c for green and green salted. If any blemishes in hides offered, reduction on our figures must be made.

WOOL—But few transactions are noted; Eastern markets keep well up; prospect for full clip good; quotations nominal at 24@28c ₱ lb.
